

Funding Request to Prudhoe Community Workshop Trust

Activities as described on the Charity Commission Website:

The trustees' description in their own words of what they do and who they help.

The objects set out in a charity's governing document can sometimes be vague, general or expressed in outdated language. The way a charity takes forward its objects may also be influenced by the resources they have available or are able to raise. This section of the Register is the trustees' summary, in simple terms, of what the charity actually does as opposed to what their legal objects allow them to do. (Charity Commission)
